STATESBORO HIGH SCHOOL.

(With apologies to Riley.)
A new High School has come to our town to stay.
To take care of the girls and boys and turn out one away.
So let the people of the town and county and elsewhere
Just know the problem now is solved.
We have a school right here.
Away with crowded classrooms that have perished on earth.
Now we have a model building standing with wide-open doors.
For this is just the kind of school that we've long dreamed about.
And Statesboro High will beat 'em if they don't.
Watch Out!

Once we had a village school—a good one in its day—
With reading, writing and arithmetic in the good old-fashioned way;
And then another, better school, did credit to its time.
With children eager to respond to the old bell's chime.
But now we want of our new school into which the old has grown.
Where science and philosophy have come into their own.
A building graced with dignity and beauty roundabout.
And Statesboro High will beat 'em if they don't.
Watch Out!

And for our High School we will sing of honor and success.
For, like a beacon light she'll stand the young to guide and bless.
For ignorance cannot exist where knowledge reigns supreme.
And superstition, too, must go; the youth we will reclaim.
Such noble lives have worked and toiled—their efforts shall succeed.
And V-L-C-T-O-R-Y spells victory, indeed.
In joyful exclamation we'll lift our voice and shout.
That Statesboro High will beat 'em if they don't.
Watch Out!

Big Returns in Cream-Cash.
(Cordelle Dispatch)

Much has been said about the dairy development in this county—especially about the twenty-five hundred dollars a month from cream shipments in the Arabi association membership. Some have suggested that there is only one way for these figures to have been erroneous—they were too small. Arabi dairymen assert that before the end of September their cream payroll will go over four thousand dollars a month—and they are aiming at a fifty thousand dollar cream income for the next twelve months—that for cream alone.

PAYS BIG CASH TO ASHBURN FARMERS

ASHBURN CREAMERY BUYS $84,244.00 WORTH OF CREAM IN FIRST TEN MONTHS' BUSINESS

Ashburn, Ga., Sept. 5.—It was announced today that the local creamery had paid out to the farmers of the section $84,244 for cream during the first ten months of its operation, and that preparations were being made to double the capacity of the cold storage.

The Ashburn creamery, which is now the largest in the state is particularly well located as to the volume of cream. Unexpectedly it was learned that the farmers of the county had more high producing cows than was at first forecasted. This year's crop now has more cows than any of the adjoining counties and the farmers are receiving largely of the semi-monthly cream checks. Railroad schedules are also good for shipments of cream and it is regularly received here from Florida and North Georgia.

The capacity of the creamery has been doubled one time since it started operation, and now preparations are being made to double the capacity of the cold storage department.

The permanent development of the local creamery which is expected by leaders of the movement here is beginning to show itself in the by-products which are being taken on. There has recently been added a department for milk feeding chickens. The chickens are bought from the local farmers at the market price and then they are fed from ten to fifteen days. At the end of this time the chickens are killed, and packed in ice and shipped as fancy.

BILL TO GUARD FISH UP TO GOVERNOR

LAW PROHIBITS TAKING OF FISH EXCEPT BY HOOK AND LINE.

Atlanta, Aug. 21.—Woe be unto those who insist on catching fish by means of baskets, seines, nets, gill-seines and "other devices," if Governor Hardwick signs the bill which was sent to his desk Monday. The bill, which passed both houses and remains for the governor's signature to become law, requires that all fish taken from Georgia streams be taken by means of the tried and true hook and line, and by that means only, for a period of five years.

The governor will confer with the state game commission before signing the fish bill and another bill, which would permit Camden county to issue fishing licenses to non-residents, although it was considered certain that both bills would receive favorable signatures. Although the governor is allowed five days in which to sign the bills, it was said he would sign them Monday night, in keeping with his announced intention to keep his desk cleared of legislative matters. All bills had been signed Monday, with the exception of six, which he held for conferences with department heads.

The other bills were for the division of bonds due Rabun, Fannin, Union, Lumpkin, Towns and Dawson counties from the sale of products from the government reservations, calling for a conference with the state treasurer; to establish consolidated public schools in every county, calling for a conference with the school commission, and to release security on the bond of J. B. Hall, treasurer of Emanuel county, call for a conference with the state controller.

$2,500 a Month for Cream.
(Sylvester Local)
Dairymen in the membership of the Arabi Dairy Association, an organization operating in Crisp county, and less than 2 year old, are receiving more than $2,500 a month for the cream which they are shipping to Ashburn. They have recently added another hundred head of cattle to their herds. At Pina, another Crisp county area is fast developing and similar income is soon to be flowing into the pockets of the farmers.

HOME CARE FOR MILK

Milk is a food which contains all the elements needed to promote and sustain healthy growth and development. It is the one essential food for infants during the first year of life and should form a liberal part of the daily diet for every child. On good authority it is asserted that the family milk supply should be a quart of milk per day per child under two years of age and not less than a pint per day for each child between the ages of two and six years.

Food experts also tell us that a pint of milk in food value is equal to one-fourth of a pound of pork loin, one-third of a pound of mutton, two-fifths of a pound of eggs and really more nutriment than is contained in a pound of oysters or codfish. Of course it is understood that when we are talking about milk and its value as a food, we have in mind only clean, wholesome milk. This is the milk that comes from healthy cows on a well-kept farm or your own home. The Department of Health has found that under the clean safe milk law is properly cared for in the home, in a few hours it may be spoiled and so dangerous to use as food for the baby. It is well known that a high temperature spoils milk. Hot weather spoils the milk, and spoiled milk makes babies sick, and this increases the baby death rate during the hot weather months. It should not be forgotten either that a high indoor temperature in winter will spoil milk as quickly in December as it will in July. Spoiled food and wrong feeding kills the babies. So baby's milk must be kept cool all the time. In order to take proper home care of your milk, the following "don'ts" should be of value.

Don't put milk on window ledge to save ice.
Don't place milk in open, unclean vessels exposed to air and flies.
Don't use milk over twenty-four hours old for the baby.
Don't mix old milk with new milk.
Don't have janitor take in milk unless he puts it into an icebox.
Don't fail to wash bottles and vessels with scalding water.
Don't fail to return empty bottles promptly.
Don't economize on ice; ice is cheaper than milk.
Don't fail to keep milk cool.
Don't forget that good milk is good food.

It is almost impossible to provide a covered box, so cool and safe, in a shaded place, where your milk can be put. The milk, so that it will be protected from flies and animals. Before opening wipe the mouth and cap of bottle dry with a clean cloth. Keep the milk in your icebox, which should be washed with boiling water and sterilized once a week. This will greatly help to keep the baby's milk in good condition.

The Georgia State Board of Health will be glad to advise you at any time. Write them for pamphlets.

THE NEED OF PLAY.
All of us know that children need to play, but few realize that it is necessary for grown folks to play too. They would keep well and live out their lives to the end that nature planned. "Nearly all the degenerative diseases result from a lack of play," says a noted doctor. "Mentally and physically we need recreation that really creates, that relaxes, that gives the tired muscles, that gives wearied nerves a chance to regain exhausted vitality."

Exercise in a gymnasium is fine, but still is ordinary outdoor play, romping, skipping, jumping like a child and preferably with the children. The simpler games do the most good, for in the childish outdoor games we get the ideal combination of exercise of muscles, fresh air and sunshine.

Health is a state of perfect balance of physical and mental and moral equilibrium. When work is balanced by play, exercise by rest, effort by sleep, body and mind and soul can function normally.

The health cranks have demonstrated that it costs 76 cents to save a man from hookworm. The warlords have demonstrated that it costs $15,000 to kill a man in war. It thus appears, if the people would give the $15,000 to the health cranks instead of to the warlords, the said health cranks could with this sum save 19,735 lives.

Let us, therefore, build another monument to the warlords, to teach our children patriotism—Bullfinch Indiana State Board of Health.

SAFETY SUGGESTIONS.
The exhaust gas from an automobile or any internal combustion engine is dangerous. Because this is true these precautions should be observed:
1. Always open the garage door before starting the engine.
2. Do not allow the engine to run for any length of time in a closed garage.
3. Do not work near the exhaust of a running automobile engine.
4. Special precautions as to ventilation are necessary when in garage pits.
5. When the exhaust is used for heating a closed car, the system must be free from leaks.
The person overcome by exhaust gases from automobile and gasoline engines should be removed to fresh air and artificial respiration performed until a physician arrives. Remove the patient from the neighborhood of the poison. Keep patient flat on the back, quiet and warm, and let him have absolute rest until breathing is good and he is restored.

NOTICE.
Just a few lines to my customers and friends: I wish to state right here that we are doing all we can at all times to give the best service we can but unless we have the help of our milk customers in cleaning and setting out bottles each night, it makes it very hard on us, as it is expensive to have so much money invested in bottles; and there is no one that realizes the expense of any business until they experience it.

In spite of the tight times of getting money, our expenses are getting higher, as bottles and caps have advanced, caps 50 per cent, bottles 25 per cent and gasoline about 20 per cent, although we are doing our best to keep prices as low as possible, the same prices as before the World War.

Now, there is no business that can continue to run always losing money. Hoping you will all consider what we have said and help us in our expense as it will benefit each of us.

Thanking you for your past patronage and soliciting more in the future.
Yours truly,
A. KINS DAIRY.

FINE SCHOOL BUILDING.

The opening of the city schools Monday morning, when the new high school building was occupied for the first time, was an auspicious occasion. It was the realization of the need which had long existed. The schools had been growing more crowded with each year, and all expedients to care for the increasing attendance were only temporary.

With the new $75,000 building just completed and occupied for the first time, it seemed that there should not again for a long time be heard the appeal for more room. Speakers upon the occasion of the opening of the school, felicitating the people of Statesboro upon their splendid school equipment, were modest in their prophecies for the future when they ventured that the new equipment would care for the needs without additional expense for at least five years.

Looking at the five large buildings, it would seem that the time limit of five years is short enough. We wonder, though, if it really is. Many things can happen in five years in a growing town. The bare fact that Statesboro offers improved facilities will accelerate the growth of school attendance. They will come from out of town to attend school, and other people will move to Statesboro for the benefits of our school facilities.

We are not wanting to alarm anybody, but we are willing to wager that not half of our five-year limit will have passed before there will spring up apparent need for some additional and improvements to our school facilities. We have just fairly begun to grow, and our school will help us in our forward march and keep at least abreast of the procession.

We recall that it was twenty years ago that the site of the old school building was acquired and a handsome eight-room structure was put up. We remember it was prophesied that our needs were met for a quarter of a century. Prof. O'Quinn was in charge of the school and he crowded into the eight-room building over three hundred students. Within three years it was necessary to build a four-room addition at the back, then four more to the side and finally four more, which more than doubled the original capacity of the building. In the meantime, the school enrollment has more than doubled, and last year the congestion was distressing. With our new high school building just opened, we should feel, if we lost sight of the strides we have made in the past, that we would never again have to build more school houses—not for a quarter of a century, at least. But when we review the past, we incline to doubt the conservatism of those who tell us we are fitted for even five years.

Mark this prediction: Before September, 1927, there will be more school building needed in Statesboro—or a mighty howl for it, at any rate. Statesboro hasn't stopped growing.

WEARING COLLARS.

Since the beginning of our acquaintance with Tom Hardwick in politics, we do not recall a single campaign in which he has not sought to play himself up as "uncolled" and "unfraid."

We remember him first seeking a place in the Georgia legislature on a negro disfranchisement platform sponsored by Watson, boasting of his "gamecock" qualities and his freedom from control, the while he was doing to bidding of the Sage of McDonough with all the humility required to hold his favor. From the state legislature to the National Congress he went by the help of Watson, where the break came and we hear him declaring his absolute independence of control.

From the House of Representatives he went into the Senate as the acknowledged choice of Woodrow Wilson, whose friendship he claimed as a reason for his election. "The gamecock" was now only a cloak, but he seemed in his public declarations to wear the collar while he styled himself a gamecock who knew no defeat. In the Senate he broke with the President over a matter of patronage, and seized every opportunity to denounce the administration and to oppose practically every measure which the Democrats, then in power, held to be necessary to a successful conduct of the war against Germany. He openly announced his disregard for the President, and boasted of his freedom of control as if it were a virtue possessed only by the strong-hearted and upright. It was in the Senate that the opportunity came for him to declare his keenest hatred for Tom Watson, who made him a factor in public life. Watson was being tried by the Federal courts charged with a serious offense. The Georgia delegates in Congress took occasion to come to the defense of the man about to be brought to court in another state. Hardwick declared his indifference to the matter, and said in substance that so far as he was concerned it made no difference to him if the courts severed into parts and tried him in four different states, so absolute was his freedom from a collar of any kind.

Wild animals threatened by the rising waters and driven to safety upon the rocky peaks, forget their antipathy toward each other and share their extremity in harmony till danger is past, whereupon they turn upon each other and the strongest devour the weak, according to the teachings of the naturalists. Thus Tom Watson and Tom Hardwick found themselves two years ago, battling a last desperate fight for their lives under conditions which played in their favor. Together they toured the state, they divided their speaking dates, they called upon their friends to stand together for both. When the waters receded and Watson had landed safe, with Hardwick still threatened upon the rocks and a second race to the flood, Watson issued an appeal to his friends: "We have won a partial victory; but our fight will not be entirely won till you have given me Tom Hardwick in the office of governor."

And that put him in beyond a peradventure of a doubt. Tom Hardwick had Tom Watson's collar on then or permitted Watson and his friends to believe he had. When the waters had receded for him, he discards the collar and, as always ungrateful in the past, proclaimed himself the uncolled and uncolled.

Our estimate of Hardwick is that he is as he declares, uncolled. Not only that, he is uncolled. If he has not intended to stand hitched, he has been unfair in pretending to assume the halter. He comes down the road in double harness with the bit in his mouth till the race is won, and then takes the bit in his teeth, elevates his tail and runs away with the collar flying loose in the air. We have quit admiring him on his strongest beauty point—collarless and uncolled.

He has played the game too much to hold confidence. He ought not to be out from Watson's hand at feed time and then kick out of harness when it comes time to work.

CARLOAD MILK COWS.

Have just returned from the dairy section of North Georgia where, by personal selection, was enabled to procure a carload of choice milk cows which I am able to offer to the farmers of Bulloch county at prices in accord with the present financial conditions. I invite you to come and see my cows.

JOHN DEAL,
Statesboro, Ga., Rt. 3.

DAIRYING NEED NOT WAIT
ON PERMANENT PASTURES

Heretofore there have been two serious objections urged against dairying in this county: lack of proper refrigeration and lack of permanent perennial pastures.

The former is easily solved by the cheap production and distribution of ice, and the use of iceless refrigerators; and the latter is being slowly solved by the introduction of new and old grasses to take the place of the wiregrass of our woodland and by the use of the various legumes and sorghums which grow to perfection on our soil.

However, I do not think we need to wait for the permanent pasture to commence dairying on at least a small scale. Having had some little experience in feeding cows, I believe that a good sized milk cow can be fed on one acre of land cut and cured to the cow. The objection is urged that this plan will take too much labor; but I contend that it can be done cheaper than you can build a costly silo and fill it with crops cut and hauled two or three times between the field and the cow.

And yet nearly all authorities on dairying urge the silo as an absolute necessity in feeding the milk cow. I don't condemn the silo but I believe we can do better in this section.

Now, I want twenty-five young men in Bulloch county who are interested in the creamery and dairy proposition to make this experiment: Plant one acre of land and make it feed a cow kept in the lot all the time. I will outline the crop: In October plant one-half acre in oats and hairy vetch (inoculating the vetch), one bushel oats and 15 lbs. vetch. This crop cut in April will give at least one and one-half tons of very cheap hay; then planted in soy beans will make another one and one-half tons of the richest feed in the world (I have made at the rate of 50 bushels per acre of soy beans). Then plant the same in ruta-baga turnips and rape, and I guarantee you will make more green, succulent feed than any cow will eat in four months.

Then divide the other half acre into plats and you have the choice of all the sorghums, millets, rape, soy beans, peas, and can make three crops on each plat. I am quite sure you can feed the cow during the whole of the year.

The advantage of this method of feeding is that you save all unnecessary exercise for the cow, and you save your land from being trampled upon, and you save feed, for it is well known that the cow is a fastidious eater. She rejects very much she has trodden upon. Lady Bess is an orthodox Hebrew.

The initial cost of this experiment will be a heavy application of a good high grade fertilizer. After that the droppings from the cow and the use of the legumes mentioned ought to increase the fertility of the land. Now, I may be asked what would this experiment be worth? If you could convince any experienced dairymen in any of the great dairying districts of the United States that you can feed a good milk cow on one acre of land, he will tell you he can't do it, and that your land is worth over $200 per acre.

If twenty-five men will carry out this experiment, it will be worth more as an advertisement to Bulloch county than the missing of the 1914 cotton crop was.

We ask your consideration of a few reflections. There is a disposition on the part of a few people to lose sight of quality in these tight money times and to spend their good money for inferior material. All who stop to think KNOW that this is poor economy.

The tendency, as above outlined, would ordinarily appeal to the merchant, and might cause some of them to buy cheap goods in order to make the cheap price, but we will maintain our high standard of quality; will sell the goods just as close as we can, knowing this to be the best policy, and on that basis we invite you to come to our store.

By way of a special inducement we are going to make some weekly offerings—one article each day—beginning Saturday, September 9th, as follows:

Principal due at end of 5 years $1,000.00
Total cost of loan for 5 years $1,350.00

The great disadvantage of this loan is that your entire principal of $1,000.00 fall due at one time, you must either pay $1,000.00 at one time, or pay a re-newal commission and $350.00 more interest which would make this loan for a period of 10 years cost you $1,700.00 as against $1,420.00.

If you need a Farm Loan, or the old one renewed, come in and see us and let us save you this money.

FARM LOANS

IF IN NEED OF A FARM LOAN it will pay you to consider the figures submitted below. We made AMORTIZATION FARM LOANS FOR PERIODS OF 10, 15 OR 30 YEAR—one commission covering the full period and privilege of prepayment without charge of unearned interest, bonus or penalty of any kind. And below we give you a comparison of the cost of our loan as compared with the cost of the term loan at the usual rate of interest of 7 per cent based upon a loan of $1,000.00 and these figures hold true in comparison of the cost of larger or smaller loans:

AMORTIZATION LOAN
(10 year period)
Annual payments of principal and interest$142.00
10x142$1,420.00
Total cost of loan for 10 years.....$1,420.00

The great advantage of this loan is that $142.00 per year is the largest amount you ever have to take care of—your loan is automatically cancelled by meeting your amortized payments.

TERM LOANS
7 per cent on $1,000—$70.00
$70.00 interest annually for a period of 5 years$ 350.00
Principal due at end of 5 years $1,000.00
Total cost of loan for 5 years $1,350.00

The great disadvantage of this loan is that your entire principal of $1,000.00 fall due at one time, you must either pay $1,000.00 at one time, or pay a re-newal commission and $350.00 more interest which would make this loan for a period of 10 years cost you $1,700.00 as against $1,420.00.

Walker Sweeps State For Governor

DEFEATS HARDWICK BY VOTE OF MORE THAN TWO TO ONE OF CONVENTION VOTE—WINS BULLOCH BY MAJORITY OF NINETY-SEVEN YESTERDAY.

Clifford Walker will be the next Governor of Georgia. The overwhelming result of yesterday's primary in the state leaves no doubt as to the wishes of the people of Georgia on that very important matter which so recently agitated the public mind.

According to figures last obtainable he had carried 113 counties with a convention vote of 285, against 42 counties for Hardwick with a convention vote of 112. The convention vote necessary for election is 209.

Walker carried Bulloch by a majority of 97, receiving 876 against 779 for Hardwick. Walker carried seven districts in the county and Hardwick five.

The vote in the county was light, due to lack of interest for want of local candidates for the various offices. The total vote in the county is 1660 out of a total registration of more than 4,000. A slight rain late in the afternoon probably tended to cut short the vote in the Court House district, where the vote was expected to be at least 1,000 instead of approximately 750 as it was.

The results in the county by districts are shown in a table on this page.

The consolidation of the vote for the county was held at noon today. According to custom, the delegates to the state convention are to be named from among the friends of the successful candidate for governor. The friends of Mr. Walker held a conference this morning and agreed upon the personnel of the delegation, which is as follows:

E. L. Anderson, J. F. Brannen, Sr., J. F. Brannen, Jr., B. M. Everett, J. F. Akis, J. D. Fletcher, D. B. Franklin, D. C. Jones, Mrs. E. H. Kennedy, Fred T. Lanier, Hudson Metts, C. H. DeMoore, F. D. Olliff, Dr. C. H. Parlier, Mrs. E. L. Smith, A. A. Turner.

WALKER SWEPS GREETINGS TO FRIENDS IN BULLOCH

In a telegram to the editor this afternoon, Clifford Walker, the successful candidate for governor, sends greetings to his friends in Bulloch in these words:

Atlanta, Sept. 14, 1922.
D. B. Turner, Statesboro, Ga.
Love and congratulations to our friends on their glorious fight. CLIFFORD WALKER.

SIXTEEN NEGROES DIE AS SEPTICEMIA FALLS

Homerville, Ga., Sept. 11.—Sixteen negroes are reported to have drowned when the bridge over the Satilla river, about four miles north of Axson, collapsed with an automobile truck bearing a party of colored people to a baseball game at Nichols.

Two truck loads of colored fans left Homerville this morning for Nichols. When the first one struck the bridge according to reports, the supports gave away and the car was thrown into the river. Some of the occupants swam to safety. All of the bodies had not been recovered this afternoon, it is reported.
